Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. Claims 1 and 5 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Saito (US 6,523,696).

Regarding claim 1, Saito teaches a method and apparatus for an Internet forwarding method (fig. 7), for forwarding Internet packets from a host fig. 7 box 205) to an Internet (fig. 7 box 202) towards a destination host (fig. 7 box 206, 207) connected to a private Internet network fig. 7 box 201, 206, 207), where the Internet network and the and the private network are coupled through at least one edge router (fig. 7 box 204), and where the destination host is assigned a global Internet address, said method comprising forwarding of the Internet packets from one of the at least one edge router toward the destination host based only on the global Internet address (col. 19 lines 16-20).

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 9-15 are allowed.

3. Claims 2-4, and 6-8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 2666

4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter.

Regarding claim 2, 6, and 9 nothing in the prior art of record teaches or fairly suggests a router daemon in combination with the other limitations of the claim.

Regarding claims 3, 7, 10-12 nothing in the prior art of record teaches or fairly suggests notifying each router by sending a protocol message at assignment of a global Internet address in combination with the other limitations of the claims. Although Sosa (An OSPF-Based Routing Algorithm for SMDS Networks) teaches link state advertisements (LSA's) for updating routers in an OSPF environment, nothing in the prior art of record suggests the message is sent at assignment of a global Internet address.

Regarding claims 4 and 8, nothing in the prior art of record teaches or fairly suggests the edge router setting up the multicast groups in combination with the other limitations of the claims.

Regarding claim 13, nothing in the prior art of the record teaches or fairly suggests at least one edge router sets up a multicast group and the destination host generates a multicast join message, such that a multicast group is joined when the multicast join message is received by the at least one edge router, in combination with the other limitations listed in the claim.

Regarding claims 14 and 15, nothing in the prior art of the record teaches or fairly suggests a multicast group updating means, coupled with an input to an output of the message receptions means and adapted to interpret the multicast message containing the global Internet address of the destination host and update a multicast group in order to establish a branch of a multicast tree, wherein at least one edge router sets up the multicast group, in combination with the other limitations listed in the claim.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 12/12/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In discussing the Saito reference, the applicant states, "terminals of the home network have their own IP addresses, which are assumed to be private IP addresses" (applicant: pg. 16 lines 10-11). However, the applicant referring to an embodiment in the reference where the public network is ISDN not the Internet. In the passage referred to by the examiner, Saito clearly refers to the IP addresses being global when the public network is the Internet (Saito: pg.

Art Unit: 2666

19 lines 16-20). The applicant contends, "Saito's system presupposes a routing mechanism internal to the home network to perform routing in the conventional manner using network addressing translation technique (NAT), that is, with the routers of the home network using address translation to arrive at the private addresses of the home network terminals" (applicant: page. 17 lines 4-7). In contrast, Saito provides reasoning why private addresses are not needed (global IP address expected to be given in 128 bits, col. 19 lines 23-24).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 2666
